Obsession II

Our spacious boat has room for 12 divers to kit up at once, with ample space to store all the diving gear. There is a side gate on the boat for easy entry and a lift or ladder, making re-boarding hassle-free.

Our boat will meet us at Ilfracombe Harbour and take us over to Lundy. We then have the Sunday at leisure to explore the Island or do some shore diving down by the pier. The boat returns on Monday and will then stay with us for 3 days diving before we return on the boat back to Ilfracombe.

Diving

The 20 mile passage to the Island takes about 1 hour, so sit back and watch out for the dolphins, porpoises and seals etc.

Our main dive area is at Lundy island which, in 1986, was made a statutory marine nature reserve. The island lies at the mouth of the Bristol Channel where the cool, clear, oceanic waters from the Gulf Stream mix with the clear, but warmer, waters from the Mediterranean.

There are over 40 dive sites around the island with a mix of wrecks, reefs, drop offs, and pinnacles. You can also dive with the seals which are extremely friendly. If you wish, you can take part in a night dive to view the sea-life after dark.

Accommodation

Millcombe House is a large classical villa which was built in 1936 for the Heaven Family, it has an amazing position, looking down a wooded valley and out to sea. Most of the furniture in the well-proportioned rooms is also 19th century. From the house it is a short walk down to the jetty in the mornings and a short walk up to the pub in the evenings.

There is a local shop for supplies.

We have rented the whole of Millcombe House which sleeps 12 in a mixture of double/twin and single rooms.
